The Logic of Divination

Led by

Robert South

The practice of divination presumes the existence of signal in something our usual understanding of nature would consider random. We can think about this agnostically, without presuming to know what it is we are dealing with. If there's something there, why assume any particular tradition has superior validity? If we collaborate with the unknown in the design of our own systems of meaning then what design principles would recommend themselves? If the spiritual speaks through any randomness in the world then is there really a line between divine communication and ordinary life? Also here's a good Ted talk on the topic.

YOUR PRESENCE MAKES ALL THE DIFFERENCE AT ALL SOULS

We miss you when you are away and we feel enlivened by your return.

Discussion Hour

The first Sunday of every month the Discussion Hour focuses directly on Unitarian Universalism itself. This is a good day for newcomers to come join us in the informal lounge:

This time our topic will be

Is Unitarian Universalism Religious?

OK, everybody answering yes or no might go pretty quickly. So, what is religion?
And how does UUism fit the definition?

Why?

Discussion hour starts in the informal lounge at 9:30 each Sunday and lasts until 10:15

Check the All Souls website for the complete schedule

1984 Discussion

A few months ago the Discussion Hour common read was the novel 1984. At that time the board took an interest in having a more elaborate church event with speakers and possibly a video presentation. Finally it's happening. Louisa Cartier will be putting it together and the date will be March 8th.

Panera Night

The congregation of All Souls has been periodically gathering at Panera Bread restaurant for a meal together for the past year or two. Panera gives a portion of the proceeds from these events back to All Souls. Our next Panera Night will be February 18th, so mark your calendar.

The proceeds from the next Panera night will go to Lorraine Payette, whose house burned down. Over the next two Sundays we will also be collecting for her during services.
